Course content

This course aims to familiarise the students with central issues in postcolonial literature and theory. The texts we will read originate from different backgrounds, but all from the field of tension between their own culture and the English language. We will discuss such concepts as hybridity, the nation, nationalism, cultural translation, and the relation between tradition and modernity. Special emphasis is put on problematisations of the understanding of what is meant by 'postcoloniality'.

Learning outcomes

Upon completion of the course, students are expected to be able to:

- Critically discuss the course's fictional, theoretical and critical texts;
- Apply postcolonial literary-critical and theoretical concepts to literary texts;
- Independently formulate an interpretation of a literary text;
- Follow the debate on postcoloniality and develop a position of their own.

Education

Instruction is given in the form of seminars. The form and extent of the training may be adjusted according to the number of students in the course.

Forms of examination

The course is assessed on the basis of active participation at the seminars, as well as written assignments.

Students will receive letter grades on a seven-point scale related to the learning objectives of the course:

A = Excellent

B = Very Good

C = Good

D = Satisfactory

E = Adequate

Fx = Inadequate

F = Totally Inadequate

The assessment criteria for the course will be distributed at the beginning of the course.

If students fail a course unit and receive the grade Fx or F on an examination, they are allowed to retake the examination up to four times, as long as the course is still provided, in order to obtain a grade of E or higher. Students who receive a grade of E or higher on an examination may not retake the examination to attain a higher grade.

If students receive the grade Fx or F on an examination twice by the same examiner, they are entitled to have a new examiner appointed to determine the grade on the examination, unless there are any specific reasons against it. Such a request should be addressed to the Board of the Department.

Interim

If this course is discontinued, or its contents are substantially altered, students have the right to be examined according to this syllabus once per semester for three further semesters.

For comparisons with the previous course system, please refer to the department's student counsellor or director of studies.

Limitations

This course may not be included in a degree together with a course, taken in Sweden or elsewhere, of identical or partially similar content.
