Course content

The primary aim of the course is to provide advanced knowledge of attachment theory and the importance of attachment to a person's social and emotional development. The theoretical content is exemplified by contributions from clinical and social anthropological research. Finally, a review will be made of assessment methods such as observations, interviews and questionnaires, which are used in attachment research when conducting scientific and clinical studies.

Learning outcomes

Upon completion of the course, students are expected to be able to:

- give an account of the psychobiological background of attachment theory;
- demonstrate theoretical knowledge of the development of attachment patterns from infancy to adulthood;
- demonstrate theoretical knowledge of the relationship between attachment and biological, social and emotional development;
- define a research-related problem and discuss this problem from an attachment theory perspective.

Education

Instruction is given in the form of lectures and seminars. Course requirements/Mandatory components:
 (a) Written report based on questions provided during the course;

- (b) Oral seminar presentation of a written report;
- (c) Written examination.

Seminar attendance is mandatory. Students who have not passed (b) above will be offered a chance to present their report at an extra seminar, or individually for the course teacher, during the course period.

The language of instruction is English and/or Swedish.

For more detailed information, please refer to the course description. The course description will be available at least one month before the course starts.

Forms of examination

a) Examination

The course is examined on the basis of a take-home examination, written papers, and an oral presentation of a paper.

Examination will be conducted in English and/or Swedish according to the course teacher's instructions.

b) Grading scale

Grades will be set according to a seven-point scale related to the learning objectives of the course:

A = Excellent

B = Very good

C = Good

D = Satisfactory

E = Adequate

Fx = Fail, some additional work required

F = Fail, much additional work required

c) Assessment criteria

Students will be informed of the written grading criteria when the course starts.

d) Final grade

In order to pass the course, students must receive a grade of E or higher on the written examination, as well as a passing grade on the written report and the oral presentation.

e) Failing the course

At least two examination opportunities should be offered during each course and semester. At least one examination opportunity should be offered during a semester when the course is not given.

Students who receive the grade Fx or F twice by the same examiner are entitled to have another examiner appointed for the next examination, unless there are special reasons to the contrary. Such requests should be addressed to the department board.

Students who receive the grade E or higher may not retake the examination to attain a higher grade.

f) Supplementary assignments

Opportunities to complete a supplementary assignment in order to convert the grade Fx into a passing grade are not provided in this course.

Interim

If this course is discontinued, or its contents substantially altered, students have the right to be examined according to this syllabus once per semester for three further semesters.

Misc

The course is included in the General Master's Programme in Psychology (SPSAO), 120 credits.
