Course content

The course provides broad information about key concepts and theories within gender studies and is divided into two modules, Gender Studies 1 and Gender Studies 2, each worth 7.5 ECTS credits. Gender Studies 1 begins with a study of the feminist thinking tradition and its roots in the history of ideas, as well as the development of gender as a concept and scientific perspective. The feminist idea of a universal sisterhood is problematised in relation to ethnicity. Notions of whiteness, Swedishness and immigrantness are analysed with a critical gender perspective. Gender Studies 2 analyses how gender is done, acts and can be understood in relation to body, sexuality, organisation and working life. The development of the terms queer and heteronormativity is discussed. Equality as a goal for political change management is critically analysed, as well as obstacles to and opportunities for change.

Knowledge that has been acquired on the course is applicable within all professions where knowledge of gender is relevant and can be applied. Examples of such professions include: investigator, journalist, social worker, art director, equal opportunities officer (Equal Opportunities Ombudsman, etc.), statistician, teacher, police officer, artist, landscape architect, doctor, public relations officer, copywriter, economist, curator, dietician, childminder, aid worker, lawyer, occupational therapist and designer.

Learning outcomes

Having completed the course, the student has demonstrated an ability to:

- explain a number of key gender issues, perspectives and concepts, such as gender, feminism, heteronormativity, queer, ethnicity and equality;

- analyse and problematise the above concepts in relation to the current debate;
- communicate the above knowledge in both written and oral form.

Education

The teaching is arranged with one three-hour teaching session per week, which begins with a short lecture and then becomes a seminar. Active participation is required.

Forms of examination

a. The following method of examination is used: take-home exam.

b. Grades are given according to a criterion-referenced seven-point scale:

A = Excellent

B = Very good

C = Good

D = Satisfactory

E = Adequate

Fx = Insufficient

F = Fail

c. The grading criteria for this course are to be distributed at the beginning of the course.

d. A grade of at least E in all modules is required in order to obtain a grade for the whole course.

e. In order to obtain at least a grade of E, a student who has received an F or Fx has the right to an additional four tests provided the course is still offered.

A student who has received a grade of E or higher may not take the test again in order to get a higher grade.

A student who has received the grade of Fx or F twice on a given test and by the same examiner can, on application, be granted a new examiner, unless there are specific reasons against this. The application should be addressed to the board of the department.

Interim
